

International Society for Biocuration

Fifth International Biocuration Conference

April 2 - 4, 2012. Georgetown University Conference Center. Washington, DC. U.S.A.

Join us!

We will provide a forum for curators and developers of biological databases to discuss their work, promote collaboration, and foster a sense of community in this very active and growing area of research. Participants from academia, government, and industry interested in the methods and tools employed in curation of biological data are encouraged to attend.
